

- MBP Africa - Waterbirds and people depend on healthy networks of wetlands!

Our site is part of a network of visitor centres spanning western Europe and Africa, along the East-Atlantic migration route ('flyway' of migratory waterbirds). We work together on bird migration, wetland management and awareness-raising at key wetland sites. Migratory waterbirds depend on such international nature conservation actions to ensure that their incredible annual journeys are completed. Find out more about this natural phenomenon, and how you can support it, for our shared futures.

You can support us by

- * visiting wetland centers near you
- * promoting our poster, newsletter and film at your site
- * helping us to protect wetland sites and bird habitats
- * celebrating World Wetland Day, 2nd of February or
- * monitoring and reporting bird movements
- * celebrating World Migratory Bird Day in May

The West Africa Steering group welcomes your input, contact us at our website:

www.migratorybirdsforpeople.org

Programme period: 2012—2017 Coordinators: Wetland Link International, Wetlands International and Staatsbosbeheer (NL)

